Five Manuals
80 Ranks

Schantz Organ Company 1957
Robert Dial 1982

The organ of Central Reformed Church was built by the Schantz Organ Company of Orrville, Ohio in 1957 concurrent with the completion of the present building. At that time it consisted of 41 ranks of pipes playable from a four manual console.

In 1982 three of those ranks were discarded and an additional 40 ranks were added by Robert G. Dial of Springfield, Illinois. The tonal finishing and regulation was completed by Leslie Peart, Director of Music for Central Reformed Church.

In 1990 two additional ranks were added. In 1991 a new five manual console in the style of E. M. Skinner was built by Organ Supply Industries of Erie, Pennsylvania and installed by Robert Dial. This new console contains preparations for an additional three ranks. The organ is now multiplexed and has its own recording system for playback of the instrument. In December of 2004 a new Tuba by Reuter was added to the choir.
